Change to Listing Information

The Tasmanian Heritage Services Directory

The Tasmanian Heritage Services Directory (“the Directory”) is maintained by Heritage Tasmania and the Tasmanian Heritage Council to assist property owners, government, community groups and others seeking heritage specialists.

The Directory provides contact details and a description of the heritage services provided for professionals, consultants, contractors and specialist tradespeople across a range of categories including architects, engineers, stonemasons, landscape architects, planners, historians, archaeologists and specialists in tourism and interpretation.

The Directory is published on the Heritage Tasmania website at: www.heritage.tas.gov.au. Details may also be distributed in hard copy, verbally or by email on request.

Conditions of Listing in the Directory

Inclusion in the Directory is not a recommendation or endorsement by Heritage Tasmania or the Tasmanian Heritage Council of professional qualifications or experience. Inclusion does also not assure an invitation to tender or an engagement of services from any government or non-government agency.

Heritage Tasmania and the Tasmanian Heritage Council rely on the applicant providing a fair and accurate description of your skills, qualifications, and expertise in cultural heritage matters. As such, listings in the Directory are not endorsed or accredited by Heritage Tasmania or the Tasmanian Heritage Council and you should not claim as much in your promotional materials or other advertising.

The provision of false or misleading information may result in a decision to not include your services in the Directory or the removal of your listing.

You will be contacted periodically by Heritage Tasmania and asked to confirm the continuation of your listing in the Directory and review the details of your listing. If no response is received within the designated review period, your listing will be removed from the Directory.
